

Greenville Community Theater

presents

A comedy by Neil Simon

Directed by
Janice Fay Hanges

Featuring
Ray Eckerle • Peter Gehn
Stewart Hanges • Ed Herman
Jean Kadela • Greg McCormack
Frank Orlando • Cathy Romanovitch
and Antonio D. Soares, Jr.

Co-Producers: Arlyne Goldberg and
"Big Daddy" Productions

Stage Manager: Michael Ferrara

Produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

"Uproarious! Neil Simon's show of shows!"
—NBC-TV

"Howlingly funny." —New York Daily News

"Flat out hysteria! A must see!" —WABC-TV

Our Location:

Edgemont High School Theater
White Oak Lane, Scarsdale, NY

General Admission	$18.00
Senior Citizens 62+.....	$15.00
Students (i.d. required).....	$10.00
Group Rate for 100+.....	$ 8.00
Group Rate for 50+.....	$10.00
Group Rate for 10+.....	$12.00

Special Discount (General Admission):

On Saturday, November 24th matinee only..... $10.00

Synopsis:

This is Neil Simon's hilarious and touching behind-the-scenes homage to the golden age of American television and the crazy writers' room that became known as 'the Harvard of comedy', when he worked as a junior jokesmith for Sid Caesar's "Your Show of Shows".

It's 1953; comedian Max Prince is the funniest man on U.S. television and his writers are the best in the business—but money and politics are threatening to get in the way of the fun. As the network's bean counters close in and Senator Joe McCarthy's anti-communist paranoia spreads, Max and his gang of brilliant lunatics discover that laughter is the best defense. The play is full of the wonderful characters and firecracker one-liners that you expect from Neil Simon — simultaneously, he brilliantly gets the point across while making us laugh.

November 16, 17, 24, & 25, 2007

Friday 11/16 and Saturdays 11/17 & 11/24 at 8 pm
Matinees on 11/24 and 11/25 at 2 pm

Reservations & Information:

(914) 636-2863